OFFICIAL CITY & COUNTY PAPER.

ON THE FRONTIER.

There is nothing small or narrow in the Western way of doing things, and when, in the latter part of 1871, the Utopia Townsite Co. sent out its advertisements, pamphlets and circulars, setting forth the unparalleled opportunities offered for obtaining much with little outlay, many responded, eager to secure the privileges. As soon as the spring of 1872 opened, the "colony" thus formed, set out for the promised land, about one hundred miles beyond the regular settling up of the country. The K. K. was to be built within a year or eighteen months at farthest, and here could be the "machine shops and roundhouse." The Land Office was to be located in the "city,"—a military post established and other large schemes suggested. The town was laid out in streets and avenues and named; but it came to pass that the great expectations of the Co. failed to materialize, and the only occupants of the corner lots were prairie dogs, owls and rattlesnakes. Murmurs were heard among the disappointed and it soon became like the old nursery jingle, "Some flew east, some flew west and some flew over the Cuckoo's nest." Yet two or three remain until this day. There is no longer any frontier; the county is thickly settled, towns are all on the K. K., which did come up the valley in ten years instead of one! To these later comers—their coming made possible by the endurance of the old settlers—the hardships and privations through which we passed seem incredible and I am so often urged to write about these days that I shall try to tell something of what one woman went through in settling the country.

I sit here and watch the covered wagons as they go farther west. Some are seeking that which can never be found until the Range is crossed over from which no man returns. Some will find their bright anticipations dwindle to crushed hopes—their joyous sowings will fail of glad fruition—all will meet with more or less of disappointment. Seeing these, the elasticity of time causes the intervening years to contract, and I live again our journey through our wilderness to the Canaan, which was to flow with milk and honey. We left Kentucky in April, 1872, reaching Nebraska City on April 28th, where we remained about three weeks, getting an outfit and provisions and making ready for our future home. I understood afterwards the interest and pinyman-ifest by those with whom I was thrown. They knew! But, with me it was a case where "ignorance is bliss." A bride, brought up in one of the most exclusive parts of Kentucky, to go as a "homesteader" away out on the frontier was an undertaking from which many would shrink. A faculty for idealizing was a help then and ever after. On May 15th, we started, two wagons. In one was the owner, who was also one of the original Townsite Co., two very young men, a Bostonian, and a day later were joined by one of the Co. who was afterwards State Superintendent of Public Instruction. The other was a likewise one of the Co., and myself and all our earthly possessions, except one box which was in the other wagon and our sewing machine which was left until a more suitable time. Utterly inexperienced, I had everything to learn, and the Bostonian and I were the "rend-ercofts" of the company.

It was a monotonous uneventful journey of three hundred miles. Riding along day after day, the rattling of the harness, the only accompaniment to the sound of the horses' feet, grew very irksome. The newness of everything was unpleasantly prominent, particularly in the suburbs of Lincoln and two little towns through which we passed. The sameness of the trip was broken when we reached the Platte Valley when that stream was bank full, from the spring thaw of snow in the mountains. The unnumberable islands, big and little, all shapes and sizes, like emerald on bands of silver, was a gladdening sight to eyes weary of miles and miles of the somber gray and brown prairie. One afternoon and night were spent at "Doblytown" near old Ft. Kearney. Here we found a striking instance of the largeness of ideas in the west. An enthusiast lived there who was actually publishing a little paper in the interest of what was to be "Centoria," the would be "National Capital"—the "geographical center of the U. S."—Alaska had not then been purchased.

The two boys entertained me with blood-curdling stories of Indian murders and now and then pointed out a lonely grave, in which a man lay, who had been killed by his partner. We spent one day and night at the mouth of Plum Creek, to rest our tired horses, before crossing the divide between the Platte and Republican, which was thirty-five miles and no water for man or beast. These graceless boys spent the afternoon in exploring the place and reporting to me what they found. There was an old mine, and there was a fortification used against the Indians, in the crumbling walls of which they picked out bullets. There was the slope over which the Indians rushed down on a party of emigrants; over there were eleven graves, where the butchered emigrants were buried. The soil ruins looked ancient, the evening was calm and still, we seemed so far from the rest of the world! The sun apparently dropping suddenly out of sight produced an unusual sensation, heightened by the quick change of twilight to darkness; the stars intensely bright, but so distant! The peculiar condition of the atmosphere, added to the fatigue of travel, with catches of conversation of the men in regard to the possibility of Indians attacking us, all together, subdued reason, and nerves, not made to reason, but to feel, used their power. It was our custom in preparing for the night for I to be in the wagon and unfold and spread the bed on top of the load, while I stood outside to straighten and arrange. This night as I took my place the darkness seemed more dense, the lantern on the inside making it all the blacker out and the mysterious stillness only increased the weirdness. I almost felt the Indians and I scrambled into the wagon, saying "I just can't stay out here, I'm afraid!" and each half seemed erect and alive. And even now, after all these years, I am still recalling that night I find my breath quickened and heart beating.

Leaving this place we traveled on reaching our destination on May 29th, having been two weeks on the road. We found the large party of nine wagons which started two weeks before we did, had only been in twenty-four hours. Coming to our "claim," which had been located the fall before, when the Co. sent out the locating party, we pitched our tent and here began our new life. Into this nine foot square tent we packed all we had, slept on the ground and for some weeks cooked by a camp fire, until the dugout kitchen could be ready. On one occasion, held an umbrella over the fire to prevent a rain from putting it out; though this was rare, as during the first year it seldom rained, only at night. After the kitchen was ready and the tent set up, I recall the allowable pride with which I drove nails in the post supporting the ridge pole and hung my pans and skillets and griddles and begun "our" housekeeping. At first we spread a newspaper on the ground and a case of home-made jars, made a table of the box in which we brought books, with legs of poles. I remember with what reverent thankfulness a blessing was asked on our humble beginnings, when we first sat down to this table with a cloth on it. We didn't have much to eat in those days and I, as a novice, was pleased with successful culinary experiments. For two years we had no cow, nor milk and butter, so my experiments were of a poverty-stricken kind.

In front of the tent was a shade of poles and willows, to the side the covered wagon bed, which answered for our small storeroom. A gunny-sack was used for carpet and I kept it sweet all around with a feeble scent of home. Little by little conveniences were added and I felt quite proud of the seats which I made; two three-legged stools and one four-legged. Two we covered with buffalo hide. During the fall when the soldiers left, we added to our pos- pany some would get on the bed for the want of room.

Indianapolis, Neb., May 28th, 1891. Co.
Board of county commissioners met pursuant to adjournment. Present, C. W. Hodg-kin, S. S. Graham and Stephen Bolles, commissioners, and Geo. W. Roper, county clerk.
Minutes previous meeting read and approved.
In the matter of the Willow Grove precinct bonds, the following were had and done:

NOTICE.

STATE OF NEBRASKA, Red Willow County; ss: To C. M. Goben and J. B. Mather, two disinterested voters of Red Willow county, Nebraska, you are hereby notified that you have been selected by me to act as members of a board of canvassers, consisting of the county clerk and two disinterested electors of said county, to canvass the returns of a special election held in Willow Grove precinct, on the 23d day of May, 1891, and for that purpose you will appear at the county clerk's office of said county on the 25th day of May, 1891, at 10 o'clock A. M.
Dated this 25th day of May, 1891.

Geo. W. Roper, County Clerk.

Abstract of votes cast at a special election held in Willow Grove precinct, Red Willow county, Nebraska, on May 23d, 1891, for and against issuing bonds in said precinct for the purpose of auditing or building canal.

The following votes were cast:
For issuing bonds, 363 votes.
Against issuing bonds, 75 votes.
Spoiled and rejected ballots, 14.

Total majority, two hundred and eighty-eight (288) votes.

We the undersigned, Geo. W. Roper, Clerk of Red Willow county, and C. M. Goben and J. B.
Mather, two disinterested electors of said county, acting as a board of canvassers, with the purpose of canvassing the votes cast at a special election held in Willow Grove precinct, Red Willow county, Nebraska, on the 23d day of May, 1891, for the purpose of issuing bonds to aid in the construction of an irrigation and water power canal passing through sections 3, 7, 8, 9 and 10, township 2, range 29 west, in said precinct, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct return of all votes cast according to the poll books returned from said precinct.

In testimony whereof we have hereunto set our hands and caused the seal of the county to be hereunto affixed this 25th day of May, 1891.
Geo. W. Roper, County Clerk.
C. M. Goben, Canvasser.
J. B. Mather, Canvasser.

ACTION OF BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS.
On motion the board proceeded to ascertain the result of the canvass of the votes cast at the special election held in Willow Grove precinct, Red Willow county, Nebraska, May 23d, 1891, upon the proposition to issue bonds to aid in the construction of an irrigation and water power canal passing through sections 3, 7, 8, 9 and 10, township 2, range 29 west, in said precinct. The board upon due investigation do find that more than two-thirds of all votes cast at said special election were in favor of said proposition, and it is hereby ordered that the notice of adoption of said proposition be published in The McCook Tribune, a newspaper of general circulation, published at McCook, in said Red Willow county, Nebraska, for two successive weeks, as by law in such cases made and provided.

NOTICE OF ADOPTION.
Notice is hereby given that the proposition of Willow Grove precinct, Red Willow county, Nebraska, to vote Ten Thousand Dollars in bonds of said precinct to aid in the construction of an irrigation and water power canal passing through sections 3, 7, 8, 9 and 10, township 2, range 29 west, in said precinct, was on the 23d day of May, 1891, in accordance with the notice and proposition of the county commissioners of Red Willow county, Nebraska, duly carried and adopted by a more than two-thirds vote of the legal voters of said precinct, and that, thereupon, on the 25th day of May, 1891, said vote was duly and legally canvassed, and that, thereupon, the county commissioners of said county, at their adjusted meeting on May 25th, 1891, found that said election and vote and all proceedings thereon had been duly and legally had in accordance with the notice and call therefor, and that more than 2/3 of all the legal votes cast at said election were in favor of said proposition to vote said bonds, and that said election and vote were duly canvassed, and said proposition legally and duly adopted in accordance with Chapter 45 of the Compiled Statutes of Nebraska, 1887, entitled, "Internal Improvements," and said bonds, of said Willow Grove precinct, in the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars will be duly issued according to law on the completion of this notice.

1891, Thomas Lonergan, plaintiff, filed his petition in the district court of Red Willow county, state of Nebraska, against the above-named defendants, and others, the object and prayer of which is to foreclose a certain mortgage upon lot 2, block 28, in the first addition to the town of McCook, Red Willow county, Nebraska, given to secure the payment of the sum of $550.00 with interest thereon, at the rate of 10 per cent. from October 25th, 1888. That said mortgage was made in the payment of the amount secured by said mortgage, and that there is now due on said mortgage the sum of $550.00 with interest at ten per cent. per annum from October 25th, 1888. That the defendants be required to pay said sum and inter-

Program of the Closing Exercises

Of the McCook Public Schools, Lutheran church, Friday, May 29th, 1891, at 3:30 P. M.
It may interest the friends of the school to know that this program is composed almost entirely of exercises used at the opening of our daily sessions; and, as the regular class work was continued without interruption up to the last week of the term, this entertainment is largely impromptu. It is not intended to make a showing of the work that has been done during this year, but you are invited to join the children in an hour's recreation:
